PURCHASE ORDER, PRODUCT, & DELIVERY INFORMATION

- 1) Purchase Orders shall list the specification and revision. If not, Everlube Products provides the latest revision we have on file.
- 2) Test Reports/Certifications are supplied for all batches; however, based on specification requirements there may be additional charges. Should this be the case, the customer will be informed, and must approve those charges prior to order acceptance.
- 3) Test Reports/Certifications, and Batch Sheets are maintained indefinitely by Product Name, and Batch Number.
- 4) Certifications are maintained for raw materials and are traceable to manufactured batches.
- 5) Notification of Product, Process, and Location Changes are only provided to organizations that have the Cognizant Engineering Responsibility for the issued specification and qualified/listed product(s).
- 6) Everlube Products uses the customers listed delivery date as the latest date that the product can be placed on a truck and shipped; as to the on-dock delivery date, the customer must allow transit time since the product is shipped FOB Origin per customer's shipper.

Everlube Products hereby attests that the information contained on this document is accurate and represents the operational and quality status of the organization; revisions will be identified by the date at the bottom of the page.
